This is not a “follow my dust” ride. You ride at your pace following Dual Sport roll charts and GPS tracks. Mostly dirt, with less than 40 miles of pavement per day average. The ride is intended for competent riders on serious Dual Sport bikes but now has options for big Adventure bikes and intermediate riders.

You’ll see it all...Southern California deserts, giant Nevada valleys with herds antelope, numerous ghost towns, the Black Rock desert where land speed records are set, high mountain plateaus where wild horses run. Ride the mountains of Oregon on the rim of the Alvord desert, cross the Snake River at Oxbow dam, then through the beautiful mountains of Montana and Idaho’s panhandle along the crest of the Bitterroot Mountains.

You will ride portions of many historical routes: De Anza trail, 20 Mule Team road, Nadeau Toll road, Pony Express trail, 40 Mile Desert portion of the California trail, Applegate and Nightingale Cutoffs of the Oregon trail, and Lewis and Clark Trail.
